

SCREAM!

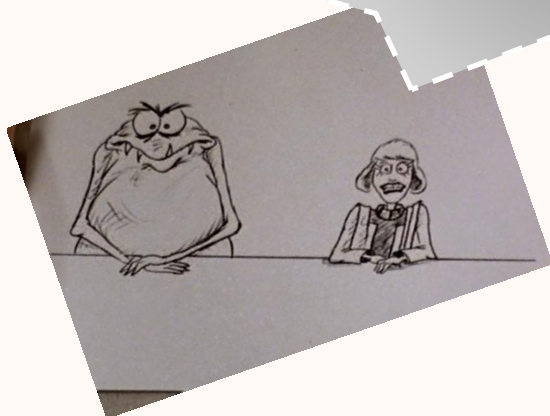

I remember once there was a scream that hung in the air.

It just sat there attempting to be noticed. But no one saw, for no one looked. And no one heard because there was no listening going on.

And I remember the girl who screamed it. She looked around and she saw that no one saw.

SCREAM!?

So she took her scream and she folded it. And she placed it back inside of herself. Where it would be seen and noticed.